MONEY In The Bank

It's sort of a password to a man's reliability in the business world.

At the Oklahoma State Bank you have the advantage of a strong progressive bank whose policy is to give the same careful consideration to the smallest depositor as to the largest.

Along these lines, this bank is increasing its deposits every day. We should like to have yours.

Tishomingo, Okla., March 29:—In a fire here last night, the most disastrous in the history of the city, three two-story buildings and contents were burned, entailing a loss conservatively estimated at $75,000 to $100,000.

The buildings were brick and the Capital Drug Store was on the corner of Main and Kemp streets. The other burned buildings were on Main street.

The Postoffice was in the rear of the opera house. The opera house was over the Capital drug store.

The loss is total with the exception of Knott's confectionery which was considerably damaged

KILLINGS

Lima, Ohio, March 29.—Two men were instantly killed, one fatally injured, and a house burned to the ground as the result of a collision between two interurban electric trains near here today. Both trains were destroyed.

The dead are:

Pearl H. McPherson, motor-mon, Lima.

Earle Rothrock, expressman, Lockington.

James Risk, baggageman, of Lima, was fatally injured and several of the passengers on both cars were seriously hurt.

The collision occurred at a place where the tracks curve around an untenanted house.

Both cars were going at full speed. An exploding fuse sent

the wreckage into a blaze, which communicated with the house.

Laurens, S. C., March 29.—Officers tonight are are scouting this county in search of Claude Ferguson and Jim Davis, negroes, charged with killing three negroes near Parks Station, this county, last night.

It is said that the fugitives, after killing a man and woman, went to the home of Alexander Ray, another negro, called him to his door and shot and killed him. None of the circumstances that led to the shooting is known.

Cincinnati, March 29.—Every demand of importance and practically one asked for was granted to the railway telegraphers operating on the Big Four railway by the arbitration board here today.

SEVERAL HUNDRED DIE IN BIG FIRE

By Associated Press

Mateszaky, Hungary, March 28.—Between 300 and 400 persons lost their lives in a fire in the village of Oekoerito, near here. An entertainment was in progress in a hotel at the time and the victims were attending it. The people were dancing when a pine branch used to decorate the ball floor, fell blazing, and in a minute the dresses of several women were afire and the blaze spread at an astonishing rate. The hall was crowded and the doors had been barred to prevent more coming in.

A dreadful panic ensued, many persons with flames shooting out from their garments rushed toward the barred doors where a surging mass were jammed together. Men and women fell and were trampled upon. Those in front endeavored to open the doors but were hopelessly crushed by the pressure of the crowd behind. Soon the roof crashed in, the blazing wreckage falling on the helpless victims, so that many of those who had hitherto escaped the flames were struck down by the beams or buried under the debris. When the door was finally broken open some few persons escaped. The statement given out tonight states that 290 persons perished, but it is believed that the total death roll will prove much larger than this.

FIRES!

Special to News

Roswell, N. M., March 29.—The big alfalfa meal mill of the Roswell Wool and Hide Company was damaged to the extent of $15,000 last night by a fire which started at 10 o'clock around an outside stairway and ran up a telephone pole to a wooden meal elevator which carried meal across an angle of the building. The fire outside of the building was soon extinguished and the department went home. About midnight the whole inside of the building broke into a blaze, although every nook had been searched for sparks. Two hundred tons of hay, ready for grinding, was ruined. The cost of the building and plant was $42,000.

Loss is fully covered by insurance. The fire department was worked until 6 o'clock this morning on the second fire. The city water went out of commission at 4 on account of heavy pressure bursting a main. From that time the fight was carried on with the company's private plant.

Welsh, La. March 27.—Practically the business section of Welsh wiped out by fire early today. Thirty buildings were destroyed entailing a loss of $200,000, with little insurance.

The fire originated through some unknown cause in the Signal Hotel and quickly spread to other adjacent frame buildings. The town is without waterworks and the efforts of citizens to check the flames proved futile.

Among the buildings destroyed were the Signal Hotel, Enreka Hotel and postoffice.

DID HE SLAY?

Pawhuska, Okla., March 28.—(Special) Martin Sanders, a cowboy who is charged with killing his associate, Jim Hiatt, on a cattle ranch in the mountain part of the county, was arrested today as he was trying to make his escape in the Caney river section. He waived examination and was committed without bail.

NEW YORK HOUSEWIFE HAS LEARNED SOMETHING.

Pastry and All Sorts of Goodies for
Which Recipes Are to Be Had
—Means Distinct Saving
in Kitchen.

"With eggs at 50 cents a dozen and
my family of four clamoring for cakes,
cookies, desserts and breakfast breads,
egg economy was simply forced upon me,"
said a thrifty New York housekeeper. "I'd always heard of eggless recipes and laughed at them, but with ruin staring me in the face I decided to make a thorough search through reliable cookbooks and domestic magazines until I'd collected a good assortment of these eggless recipes.

"I gave up the best part of three
days to looking through the cook-
books at one of the large public libraries and I was simply amazed at
the results of my search. While some of the best authorities had not a single recipe for cake made with less than three eggs, others of equally high standing usually gave a one egg cake
and occasionally an eggless cake.

"All authorities gave directions for making icings and fillings without the use of a single egg, while up to that time I'd always used at least the white
of one egg for any kind of frosting.
All the books gave a recipe for mollasses cake or gingerbread without eggs, and one or two included an egg-
less recipe for cookies.

"When it came to breakfast breads
I had quite a hunt, but after a close examination of every recipe of this kind in the best books I copied half a dozen into my notebook. Most of these I've tried since and they've proved to be all that was claimed for
them, eggless but nevertheless light and nice. Some of these were so simple as to seem really ridiculous until
I tried them. Waffles without eggs were unknown except in one book, and
but one recipe could I find for an egg-
less griddlecake!

"Desserts without eggs seemed to offer the most promising field for my research, and I found I could not only treat my family to eggless pumpkin
and lemon pies (which was a surprise to me), but I could give them a variety of puddings of the kind that usually called for two or three eggs at the very least."

Punch.

A novelty for whist or social parties where a beverage is served:
Strip, wash and bruise with potato
masher enough mint to lightly fill a quart bowl. Cover with boiling water and steep, like any tea, for 10 minutes. Strain well and chill on ice.
When cold add a cup of grape juice
and one of raspberry or strawberry.
Canned fruit may be used. Barberry juice is good, but not so easily obtained. Make a syrup of white sugar and water, boiled for 10 minutes, and sweeten with this to suit taste. Do not use raw sugar. If no fruit can be obtained or for any reason is not preferred, use lemon or orange or pineapple juice. Any way the punch looks nicer if a few slices of lemon float around in it. Add also a few sprigs of mint. The flavor is not pronounced and is agreeable.

Frosting the Cake.

For a delicious white frosting for a cake take one cup of granulated sugar,
four tablespoons of cold water, and one tablespoon of vinegar. Boil for about five minutes, or until it forms a thread when dropped from a spoon.
Have ready the whites of two or three eggs whipped to a stiff froth. Add the sugar syrup to the whites of eggs and beat vigorously until it is light and creamy.

Spread thickly on the cake and set aside to harden. It is not necessary to put in the oven to harden.

A Jelly for Invalids.

Has it ever occurred to you to jelly
fruits in the smallest possible glasses for the invalid friend? Glasses may be had which will hold but a quarter of the jelly usually put into
the ordinary tumbler size.

While you may not want to carry to
your friend just one of these tiny play-
things, the variety that you could take
in four of the little glasses would
be novel and so much more acceptable to the delicate appetite than a quantity of one kind.

Cranberry Sherbet.

Instead of cranberry sauce or jelly
try a cranberry sherbet with the roast.
A pint of water and a pound of sugar
to each pint of juice should be frozen
in the usual manner; when partly
done stir in the whipped white of one
egg for each pint of juice, finish freezing, then add a cup of chopped crystallized fruit softened by previous soaking, repack the freezer and let stand for an hour to ripen.

Honeycomb Pudding.

Beat two eggs, add one-half cup
sugar, one-half cup molasses, one-half cup milk in which dissolve one-half teaspoon soda, one-half cup flour.
Pour into pudding dish and bake in
moderate oven 45 minutes.

Sauce: One cup sugar, one cup boiling water, butter size small egg, salt,
one tablespoon flour dissolved in three tablespoons cold water, one-half teaspoon lemon extract.

Soft Chocolate Frosting.

One-half cup sugar, two-thirds cup
of water, two squares chocolate grated, piece of butter size of walnut. Boil all together, add one tablespoon of cornstarch dissolved in water. Cook till it thickens. Stir in the beaten white of an egg and beat for two minutes. Add one teaspoon vanilla.

Queer Behavior by "The Captain"

"So you come after all," observed
Tabitha in a tone of reproach.

"I come right away, soon's I got
your message," returned Lavinia.
The visiting spinster laid aside her
shawl and straightened her bonnet.
She was the dried apricot kind, and sucked in her lips so hard that she spoke with a lip. It was a wonder that her quick, nervous movements
never made her bones rattle.

Miss Tabitha was just the other way, like a pin cushion. There was a double chin under her face and a rat
over it, and the latter was the more apparent because it was reddish in color, whereas the three wisps of hair
that held it on were brown.

"Certainly I come right away," Lavinia reaffirmed, "and I'd just like to know why you're sending for me at this hour of the morning. I've hardly ate breakfast. What's happened?"

"Wait till you hear."

"The captain ain't had a spell has
he?"

"Somethin' pretty like it. I should say, and if he hasn't, why then, I have."

"Do tell."

"Yes, it's just as I say. I'm that nervous I can't make a cup of tea, and
the captain's in disgrace."

"Ain't taken to drinkin', has he?"

"The visiting spinster went off in a titter."

"Lavinia Merkle! Well, no. But he would if he could, right enough. He's the worst parrot in Greenwich village."

"That why you've got the cage covered?"

"That's it. Didn't you hear nothin'
in the night?"

"How would I, across the street?"

"Well, it's a mercy you didn't. I thought all the neighbors would hear."

"What's he done?"

"Just listen to this. Come nine o'clock last night when I was thinkin'
of bed, I noticed the captain was eyin'
me pretty sharp."

"O ho, Mr. captain, I won't stand
for none of your nonsense," I says. "If you're up to mischief, you can take the mornin' for it." And he cocked his head on one side and kept his eye on
me. I said 'Good night,' but he never answered a word, so I turned out the
light and got into bed."

"That all?"

"I should say not! I lay there and I lay there, wonderin' what he was goin' to do. At last, after midnight, I hadn't no more than got to sleep when I was waked up by a terrible screech."

"Tabitha Mowscrits!"

"Yes I was 'Mr. Captain,' I says,
'you'll get yours, some mornin', I says.
And with that he let out a screech worse than other. That time I just passed it over so's he'd think I wasn't pantin' any attention to him. It worked good, too. There wasn't a sound out of him for a long time, but
just as I was dozin' off again he let
out another yell that made me sit right up in bed. And what do you s'spose he said?"

"What?"

"Whisky?"

"Tabitha Mowscrits!"

"Fetch the whisky," he hollers.
Wasn't it scandalous? Fetch the whisky—whisky, whisky, whisky!"

"You wicked old bird! I says, 'you shut your trap. The neighbors'll hear you.' Then he changes his tune and calls for the peppermint."

"Peppermint?"

"Yes and hot water and smellin'
salts and anisette and Jamaica ginger,
and everythin' you could think of."

"My goodness! What ailed him!"

"Cussedness. That's all. He remembered the spell I had last Thanksgiving, and he was just mocking me."

"Ain't he full of the mischief!"

"Is he! Then he started in again,
'Fetch the whisky—peppermint, hot water, smelling salts, Jamaica ginger, anisette—' When he'd kept it up half an hour I got up and threw a skirt over the cage. That shut him up and I finally got a little sleep."

"Going to keep him covered over all day?"

"It would serve him good and right."

"Might be sometin' the matter with
him."

"Course there isn't!"

Nevertheless Miss Tabitha stooped
down and peeped under the skirt.

"My land!" gasped Miss Tabitha, straightening up suddenly with startling eyes.

Miss Lavinia shot one glance at her friend, and with a frenzied clutch whisked the skirt of the cage. At the bottom of the cage lay a pale green
egg.

The captain cocked his head on one side and leered ironically at the two old maids.

"Well, I don't wonder he was
s'prised," remarked Lavinia.

"S'prised?"

"Yes, s'prised. Ain't it rather out of the ordinary for captains?"

Straight Advice.

Millionaire (to attorney)—It is my desire to leave all of my property to the United States government. How can I do so and be sure a lot of relatives won't get it after I'm gone?

Attorney—Turn your holdings into

Itch Relieved at Once

That terrible itch disappears with
the FIRST DROPS of a simple compound of oil of wintergreen, thymol and glycerine mixed in D. D. D. Prescription. This soothing, healing lotion, used externally kills the eczema germ instantly.

Heretofore the D. D. D. remedy
has been sold only in $1.00 bottles;
but as a special offer, any sufferer
in this town who has never tried D.
D. D. can now try this remedy in a special bottle at 25c. It cures the itch instantly. We KNOW this. Ram-

THE CAUSE OF COLDS

If people would only fortify and strengthen the system, the majority of cases of coughs, colds and pneumonia might be avoided. These troubles are frequently due to weakness, which produces a catarrhal condition of the mucous membrane, which is an internal skin of the body. When this skin is weakened, it becomes easily infected
with germs which cause many of the diseases to which the flesh is heir.
Healthy mucous membranes are essential safeguards of the body's general health.

An excellent aid in the prevention of cough, colds, pneumonia, and such like infectious diseases, is a remedy that
will prevent or cure catarrh.

We have a remedy which we honestly believe to be unsurpassed in excellence for the prevention of coughs, colds and all catarrhal conditions. It is the prescription of a famous physician, who has an enviable reputation
of thirty years of cures gained through the use of this formula. We promise to make no charge for the medicine
should it fail to do as we claim. We urge everybody who has need of such a medicine to try Rexall Mucu-Tone.

It stands to reason that we could not afford to make such statements and give our own personal guarantee to this remedy if we were not prepared to probe the reasonableness of our claim
in every particular, and we see no reason why any one should hesitate to accept our offer and try it. We have two sizes of Rexall Mucu-Tone, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Sometimes a 50 cent bottle is sufficient to give marked relief. As a general thing, the most chronic case is relieved with an average of three large bottles. You can obtain Rexall Remedies in Ada only at our store.—The Rexall Store. Gwin &

NATURE SPARES

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

What a fortunate provision of nature
it is, that deprives the rose of mental suffering; for how poignant would be its grief to discover, in the height of its blooming glory, that a canker fed at its heart, and that its beauty and fragrance
were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable storehouse of pleasing rewards, for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by failing hair and grayness have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause
of hair destruction is now known to be
a germ or parasite that burrows into
the hair follicles. Newbro's Herpicide absolutely destroys this germ, thus permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample

IS NO POWER!

The Evening News today is set like it was several years ago—by hand—on account of no electricity, the plant being shut down because of the scarcity of water, which cripples the line-type machine. Everything is expected to be revived soon.

REAL TALKING PICTURES AT LAST

Manager Harrigan pursuing his policy of giving Ada the best in the amusement line, presented A. R. Ableman's Talking Picture Co., last night and his patrons responded by crowding the DeSota at each show. They were well rewarded as the entertainment was first class in every particular. The pictures were new and pleasing, the talking perfect and the properties and effects used realistic and startling. "The Wages of Sin" suggested by Marie Corelli's "The Vendetta" will be rendered to-night in conjunction with a new program of elegant pictures and illustrated song and the house should be crowded. It is just a like a regular play to see and hear these talking pictures as real actors render them, and not a horn. Everyone last night declared them to be true to life. They are only here to night and tomorrow night.

STRAY SHOT HITS WOMAN

Officer Kills Mad Dog but one Shot Goes wild and Hits Lady's Hand

Yesterday somebody from old town phoned the sheriff's office that a mad dog was on a rampage in that section of the city and at every jump was threatening to kill or cripple some one. Officer Perrin with a shot gun was sent to kill the dog. The animal was killed but one of the shots strayed from the others and went through a window of a house on 7th street. A young lady, a daughter of Chas. Edson was sitting at the window and a piece of the flying glass hit her hand.

COUNCIL CALLS MEETING TONIGHT

MASS MEETING CALLED FOR THIS EVENING TO SETTLE WATER PROBLEM

MAY GET BYRD'S MILL WATER

Plan on Foot to Secure Much Needed Water at Place—Lively Discussion of Ditcher's Actions

At the council meeting last night the water question, which has become a serious one in Ada on account of the scarcity of water, was thoroughly discussed and a mass meeting called for tonight to determine whether the city shall get water at Bird's Mill. This proposition was suggested last night and the meeting tonight is to be called for the purpose of seeing if the people will stand behind the city.

The Ditcher Again.

A lively tilt was engaged in by the fathers when the engineer's report, including $82.07 for time lost by the steam ditcher on account of being held up by G. P. Carney, was read. Chapman, Grigsby and Sims thought the council ought to reconsider the passage of the assessing ordinance which included the ditcher's loss of time, $82.07. The other councilmen, except West, who was absent, thought that since the ordinance had run a week at considerable expense it would be better to apportion the $82.07 to the property owners in the district and credit their first payment with it.

In either event the property owners will get the benefit of water.

JUSTICE D. J. BREWER DEAD

Washington, March 29.—David Josiah Brewer, associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, died Monday night at 10.30 o'clock, as the result of a stroke of apoplexy. His death followed within a minute or two, before he could be carried to his bed. Mrs. Brewer was with him when the end came. Justice Brewer was 73 years of age.

The end came altogether unexpectedly. Although he had not been feeling well for the past few days, the aged jurist was up and out that day and apparently in the best of health and spirits. He was in equally good spirits at dinner, and spent the evening in reading.

BIG FIRE AT TULSA

Tulsa, Okla., March 29.—A fire, started presumably by a grass blaze, resulted in a $100,000 loss in the east end of the Glenn Pool oil field this afternoon. Twenty-five rigs and twenty tanks partly filled with oil, belonging to the Prairie Oil and Gas company and the Gulf Pipe Line company were destroyed. The quantity of oil destroyed is not known definitely.

PIN BLAME ON CANINE

Washington, March 29.—On a big, black dog may depend the decision as to whether or not any of the negro soldiers, discharged as a result of the shooting up of Brownsville, Texas, are to be allowed to enlist in the army of the United States. Such a dog is said to have bounded along ahead of the raiders who went on their death-dealing mission on August 13, 1906.

This obscure bit of testimony was brought to the fore today at the sittings of the military court of inquiry. The tale of the dog was told in court by Captain Charles R. Howland, recorder of the court, in his closing address. He recalled how, as the raider went through Cowan alley on the fatal night, Mr. and Mrs. Odin heard the noise, and looking out saw a dog leaping along ahead of the men and thought the men were shooting at this supposed mad dog. He said Mr. Odin described it as a "large, black dog."

THREE KANSANS FOULY MURDERED.

Concordia, Kan., March 29.—Chas Nordmark, a hermit, was arrested this afternoon and is being held pending a thorough investigation of the murderer of Alex Lindahl and his two children, whose bodies were found on the banks of the Republican river near Scandia, Kans., Sunday. Suspicion is attached to Nordmark because of the ill feeling known to have existed between him and Lindahl.

Nordmark lived alone in a little hut near Scandia, and when this hut was searched, following his arrest, the officers found three shot guns, a half filled keg of dynamite and five hundred loaded shot gun shells. The Lindahls were first shot with a shotgun and then clubbed in a fearful manner. Nordmark took his arrest coolly. He would not make any statement. He was lodged in the county jail at Belleville tonight.

Cincinnati, March 29.—Rejection by the miners of Ohio, Indiana and western Pennsylvania late today of a proposition from the operators that called for a five-cent increase per ton but that either refused or referred the remainder of the demands to the districts, put the situation nearer to a possible strike than it has been since the beginning of the joint conference.

BIG DAMAGES

Fort Worth, Texas, March 29.—W. E. Washington, a cattleman of Love county, Oklahoma, is being sued in a local court for $25,000 damages by Mrs. J. C. VEGETABLES NOW IN SEASON

New and Old Ways of Preparing the Ordinary Accompaniments of the Staple Meats.

Creamed Cabbage.—One small head cabbage chopped coarsely and boiled 10 minutes in boiling salted water without covering; drain. Mix two level tablespoons of flour with the same amount of butter and add to one-half pint of the liquid from cabbage, one cupful scalded milk, one-half teaspoonful salt; stir over flame until rather thick. Place layer of cabbage, one of sauce, until bake dish is full, then place in oven until nicely browned. May be prepared the day before wanted. Only takes a longer time to brown in the oven when ready.

Sweet Potatoes.—Peel, boil in enough water to cover. When nearly done pour off all but a cupful of the water and add one good cup of sugar. Cook about 10 or 15 minutes longer. Then take out potatoes, put in a pan with a tablespoonful of butter, add just a little vanilla to the sirup and pour over the potatoes. Put in oven and brown. Serve hot.

Potatoes au Gratin.—Boil as many potatoes as needed in the jackets. Peel and cut in small cubes. Put a layer of potatoes in a baking dish and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Now grate Swiss cheese plentifully over them and dot with butter. Put more potatoes and more cheese until pan is full. Cover top with cracker crumbs and pour a cupful of rich milk over and bake about 30 minutes. Serve from pan you baked them in. This is a fine dish, but use no other than Swiss cheese.

Potatoes.—Pare, wash and bake all same size potatoes. After done, cut in halves, scrape out the inside of potato, add butter, pepper, salt and milk, then mash and beat until very light; then put back into the half shell, rounding top nice and smooth. Put under broiler flame to brown quickly, serve on platter, garnish with parsley; put a small piece of butter on each half potato just before serving.

Green Tomato Mince.—To one-half peck of green tomatoes add two pounds of sugar, one pound of raisins, one pound of cranberries, one tablespoonful ground cinnamon, three-fourths tablespoonful of cloves, one-half cupful of vinegar, pinch salt, five sour apples, one-half cupful of beef suet; put whole mass through meat chopper and boil about two hours. The suet can be omitted, but it won't be quite so rich without. This keeps all winter in stone crock or glass jars.

A cloth moistened with alcohol will clean piano keys.

Clean linoleum with warm water and polish with milk.

Ammonia used unsparingly cleanses and purifies kitchen utensils.

Clean soiled wallpaper with plaster of paris tied up in a muslin bag.

No soap on window panes! Rub them with either alcohol or ammonia to make them shine.

Decorated china plates should be put away with round pieces of cotton flannel between them.

Apply the white of an egg with a camel's hair brush to fly specks on gilt frames and they will disappear.

Soft soap made from half a pound of shaved down hard soap and two quarts of water will save the soap bill at cleaning time.

All the cooking utensils should be washed with soda immediately after they have been used, which will remove every trace of grease.

Grated raw potato makes a splendid cleanser for carpets. Rub it over the surface and finish off with a clean cloth wrung out of warm water.

Cover plaster of paris figures with a thick coating of starch and water, let it dry on the surface and the dirt will brush off with the dry powder.

Breaded Lamb Chops, Stuffed Tomatoes.

Select tender chops, about one inch thick, remove all extra fat, season with salt and pepper, cover with fine sifted breadcrumbs, lay on a rack in the baking pan. For each chop take one ripe but firm tomato, cut a small circle off the top, scoop out a little of the inside and fill the cavity with fine bread crumbs seasoned with salt and pepper, a little melted butter, a few drops of lemon juice and a little minced parsley. Cover with the circle cut off, place a tomato on each chop and bake in a hot oven from 20 to 30 minutes.

Ironing Board.

The ordinary board may be made much handier for ironing garments of all descriptions, but especially skirts and shirts, by the use of the saw, plane and square. Notches are made near the ends to allow the tops of the chairs to pass through, while a clothes basket or some heavy object placed on one of the chairs will steady it.

Sauce Maitre d'Hotel.

Thoroughly blend a piece of butter the size of an egg with chopped parsley, black pepper and a little fine table salt. Then put this in a bowl to melt slowly, and when liquid serve it smoking hot with boiled or broiled fish, broiled meat or simply boiled potatoes. Squeeze half a lemon into the sauce before sending it to the table.

Sponge Candy.

One cup of table syrup, one cup of granulated sugar; let boil until it cracks when dropped in cold water. Take two teaspoons of baking soda rubbed smooth; stir soda quickly into candy. After removing candy from fire, when thick turn out on buttered platter and let cool.

The Engaged Girl's Worries

"Haven't you noticed how thin I've grown?" asked the engaged girl of her chum, who had just returned from a trip.

"You aren't quite up to the usual mark, now that you call my attention to it, dear," murmured the chum.

"Let me see," said the engaged girl. "It was six weeks ago, wasn't it, that I wrote you Tom had proposed? He passed one delicious week with me, then, three days after he arrived home, my ring came. Yes, I know you've been dying to ask me about it, and that's what I'm coming to."

"Well, when I opened the box and saw that lovely solitaire it seemed as though Tom was near me somehow. Of course, any engaged girl can understand when I say that it compensated in a measure for his absence. The family were exclaiming over the ring when I took it from the box and started to slip it on my finger."

"For goodness' sake, child," gasped Aunt Mary, "don't you know that it's bad luck for anyone but Tom to put that ring on your finger the first time?"

"Of course everybody laughed, as we always do whenever Aunt Mary parades her superstitions. Then, just to show her that I didn't give a particle of weight to such foolishness, I slipped the ring on and waved my finger under Aunt Mary's nose. She looked deeply injured, as usual, and walked out of the room. In my thoughtless way I went on admiring the diamond and thinking what a dear Tom is."

"That afternoon as I was dressing to go to the embroidery circle meeting and anticipating the sensation my ring would create I suddenly remembered that I had left it on the washstand in the bathroom. Of course I ran to get it, and just as I reached forward to pick it up, in some unexplainable manner it slipped forward on the marble and down it went into the pipe!"

"I was simply paralyzed for a moment. Then I flew downstairs and phoned for a plumber to come posthaste, meanwhile wringing my hands and not daring to try to recover the ring myself for fear I might not get it at all. Mother and Aunt Mary were in the library and had heard me when I phoned. Mother was a perfect dear and never reproached me for my carelessness, but if ever a mortal looked triumphant Aunt Mary did."

"It seemed ages before the plumber arrived, and when he finally did come of course he had to go back to the shop for some tool or other. Well, when he got started he worked and worked, and after an agonizing time he actually fished up my ring! Relief! I could have kissed him, grimy as he was! But I was so worn out from the nervous strain that I wasn't fit to go to the meeting. It was too late, anyhow."

"The next day I took my ring down to the jeweler's to have him clean it, because some particles of dirt had got under the setting and I wouldn't attempt to clean it myself. I took it off and laid it on the counter while he wrote my name on a little slip. When he reached for the ring it wasn't there!"

"At first I thought it was a joke he had played on me, for I've been going to him for years. So I laughed and told him not to frighten me. But soon I saw by his manner that it wasn't a joke at all. The ring was really gone!"

"We turned everything over, I looked up and down the floor, into crevices and every possible place I could think of. Then I grew hysterical and I really began to believe in spite of his knowing me well he began to suspect me of some ruse. As I leaned against the show-case and wept I heard something tinkle, and there, hanging to the fuzzy sleeve of my jacket, was my ring!"

"I never mentioned a word of the occurrence at home, but, of course, Aunt Mary had to go to that jeweler's the very next day to have a pin clasp repaired, and she heard the whole story. By that time the ring was beginning to get on my nerves to such an extent that I couldn't sleep. I'd wake up in the middle of the night in a cold perspiration, having dreamed that I had lost it. I'd hide it in all sorts of queer places for fear it would be stolen, and then I would nearly go into spasms because I had forgotten where I had put the ring."

"Finally, after I dropped it at the matinee one day and had a terrible time rescuing it from under the feet of a fat man who sat near me, I decided to deposit it with mother's valuables at the bank and there's where it reposes at present. Do you wonder that I look anxious and worn?"

"Well, it's a rather poor story," yawned the chum. "Now, I've got something really interesting to tell you. Do you know—"

"Tom's coming next week," interrupted the engaged girl, blushing prettily, "and I'm going to ask him to exchange the ring for one exactly like it, so he can be the very first one to put it on my finger. And never again will I ridicule Aunt Mary's warnings or call them foolish superstitions."

"If Tom is as clever as he thinks he is," said the chum, "he'll simply pretend to change the ring and then he'll put the same one on your finger and you and your Aunt Mary will not know the difference."

"Tom would never deceive me, never!" declared the engaged girl, indignantly.

"Oh, you dear, witty thing!" said the chum.

The Prodigal Uncle

By HAROLD CARTER

It was during the second term in the penitentiary that the great plan first came into Jim Byers' head. At first it was only a thought that stole upon him during the night, while he tossed uneasily upon his plain bed; then a desire; suddenly a mighty and overwhelming passion which must be fulfilled.

When he was freed prison societies came to him and offered him help. But he refused and started on his tramp eastward with the little money that he had earned. First he must fulfill his determination.

It was 150 miles up state to the old home where his brother—the rich man—still lived. Walter had stayed at home and prospered, and was always spoken of as a prospective millionaire, while he, the outcast, the prodigal, the jailbird, the broken man, tramped eastward along the railroad line for that first reunion after 15 years of absence and silence.

It was his absolute determination to meet his brother face to face and kill him, kill him as calmly and remorselessly as he himself had once killed cattle in the slaughter yards, because he had prospered while he was starving. What would come afterward he did not think or care.

For five nights and days he tramped along the railroad line, exulting at each remembered landmark for the vengeance which was to come to him. A dusty tramp, disheveled, torn, a few coins dancing in his pockets as he tripped from tie to tie, the knife hidden in his sleeve which was to absolve his debt of hatred. In this wise he reached the little village.

He stood still, rubbing his eyes in wonder. This his home site? Why, here was a factory town, with smoke belching from the tops of 20 tall chimneys.

Did anybody remember the old Byers homestead?

Yes, the saloonkeeper remembered it. But he did not remember Jim in his tramp's clothes, with prison pallor upon his face. It had been sold and pulled down these ten years or more. Walter Byers? Why, that was the Byers' home, that red brick building on the hill yonder. He might get a job there possibly. Mr. Byers was always in need of hands in his factory.

Slowly Jim turned his face toward his brother's house and toiled up the hill painfully. No matter, his work would soon be over. But when he reached the gate of the garden he stood still, staring into the face of a little girl who sat there, shading her eyes as she gazed cityward.

"Is Mr. Byers at home?" and he felt the steel beat a tattoo against the bare flesh of his arm.

"Father's not home yet," said the girl. "There's nobody home but me." "So you're Walter Byers' daughter, are you? Have you any brothers and sisters?"

"No, there's only me. You're not my Uncle Jim, are you?"

She looked into his face frankly and anxiously.

"No, I know you're not. Because you're so poor and Uncle Jim's rich. He's coming home some day to take us by surprise. Only, you see, we're all so anxious for him to come, because father tried so hard for years to find him, and we know he's making his fortune out in the west somewhere and he'll come back again."

He had become a myth, the rich uncle who was to return some day to his devoted family! Jim heard incidents of his boyhood, exploits now greatly magnified, from his little niece's lips. And they were proud of him!

For the first time since he had left the penitentiary he laughed, then stopped and drew his sleeve across his eyes. He turned away.

"Won't you wait for father? He won't be long. Who shall I tell him called to see him?"

Jim straightened himself. "Tell him a broken man who's gone out to fight the world again; to lift up his head and look it in the eye squarely. A man who's taken his beating and learned his lesson."

He turned and plunged down the steep hill westward in the direction of the railroad line.

New York Farms.

A farm in Central New York, bought a few years ago for $15 an acre, produced two years later a crop of peas worth more than $50 an acre. This incident, considered in conjunction with the fact that many farms can be bought for even less than the value of the buildings standing on the land, is used in a bulletin by Commissioner Pearson of the state agricultural department to indicate the possibilities of agriculture in New York.

This publication also gives the value of crops in this state for a period of 40 years, showing that New York is the fourth state in agricultural importance. A significant feature of the statistics is that while in 1875 New York raised 35,000,000 bushels of potatoes, valued at $10,985,179, last year it produced 34,850,000 bushels, valued at $26,138,000. Similarly increased value is shown in other crops, while the volume is about the same.

Tishomingo, Okla., March 29.—In a fire here last night, the most disastrous in the history of the city, three two-story buildings and contents were burned, entailing a loss conservatively estimated at $75,000 to $100,000.

The buildings were brick and the Capital Drug Store was on the corner of Main and Kemp streets. The other burned buildings were on Main street.

The Postoffice was in the rear of the opera house. The opera house was over the Capital drug store.

The loss is total with the exception of Knott's confectionery which was considerably damaged.

KILLINGS

Lima, Ohio, March 29.—Two men were instantly killed, one fatally injured, and a house burned to the ground as the result of a collision between two interurban electric trains near here today. Both trains were destroyed.

The dead are:

Pearl H. McPherson, motor-mon, Lima.
Earle Rothrock, expressman, Lockington.

James Risk, baggageman, of Lima, was fatally injured and several of the passengers on both cars were seriously hurt.

The collision occurred at a place where the tracks curve around an untenanted house. Both cars were going at full speed. An exploding fuse sent

the wreckage into a blaze, which communicated with the house.

Laurens, S. C., March 29.—Officers tonight are searching this county in search of Claude Ferguson and Jim Davis, negroes, charged with killing three negroes near Parks Station, this county, last night.

It is said that the fugitives, after killing a man and woman, went to the home of Alexander Ray, another negro, called him to his door and shot and killed him. None of the circumstances that led to the shooting is known.

SEVERAL HUNDRED DIE IN BIG FIRE

By Associated Press

Mateszalky, Hungary, March 28.—Between 300 and 400 persons lost their lives in a fire in the village of Oekoerito, near here. An entertainment was in progress in a hotel at the time and the victims were attending it. The people were dancing when a pine branch used to decorate the ball floor, fell blazing, and in a minute the dresses of several women were afire and the blaze spread at an astonishing rate. The hall was crowded and the doors had been barred to prevent more coming in.

A dreadful panic ensued, many persons with flames shooting out from their garments rushed toward the barred doors where a surging mass were jammed together. Men and women fell and were trampled upon. Those in front endeavored to open the doors but were hopelessly crushed by the pressure of the crowd behind. Soon the roof crashed in, the blazing wreckage falling on the helpless victims, so that many of those who had hitherto escaped the flames were struck down by the beams or buried under the debris. When the door was finally broken open some few persons escaped. The statement given out tonight states that 290 persons perished, but it is believed that the total death roll will prove much larger than this.

Special to News

Roswell, N. M., March 29.—The big alfalfa meal mill of the Roswell Wool and Hide Company was damaged to the extent of $15,000 last night by a fire which started at 10 o'clock around an outside stairway and ran up a telephone pole to a wooden meal elevator which carried meal across an angle of the building. The fire outside of the building was soon extinguished and the department went home. About midnight the whole inside of the building broke into a blaze, although every nook had been searched for sparks. Two hundred tons of hay, ready for grinding, was ruined. The cost of the building and plant was $42,000.

Loss is fully covered by insurance. The fire department was worked until 6 o'clock this morning on the second fire. The city water went out of commission at 4 on account of heavy pressure bursting a main. From that time the fight was carried on with the company's private plant.

Welsh, La. March 27.—Practically the business section of Welsh wiped out by fire early today. Thirty buildings were destroyed entailing a loss of $200,000, with little insurance.

The fire originated through some unknown cause in the Signal Hotel and quickly spread to other adjacent frame buildings. The town is without waterworks and the efforts of citizens to check the flames proved futile.

Among the buildings destroyed were the Signal Hotel, Enreka Hotel and postoffice.

DID HE SLAY?

Pawhuska, Okla., March 28.—(Special) Martin Sanders, a cowboy who is charged with killing his associate, Jim Hiatt, on a cattle ranch in the mountain part of the county, was arrested today as he was trying to make his escape in the Caney river section. He waived examination and was committed without bail.

NEW YORK HOUSEWIFE HAS LEARNED SOMETHING.

Pastry and All Sorts of Goodies for
Which Recipes Are to Be Had
—Means Distinct Saving
in Kitchen.

"With eggs at 50 cents a dozen and
my family of four clamoring for cakes,
cookies, desserts and breakfast breads,
egg economy was simply forced upon me,"
said a thrifty New York house-
keeper. "I'd always heard of eggless
recipes and laughed at them, but with
ruin staring me in the face I decided
to make a thorough search through
reliable cookbooks and domestic magazines until I'd collected a good assortment of these eggless recipes."

days to looking through the cook-
books at one of the large public libraries and I was simply amazed at
the results of my search. While some
of the best authorities had not a single
recipe for cake made with less than
three eggs, others of equally high
standing usually gave a one egg cake
and occasionally an eggless cake."

"All authorities gave directions for
making icings and fillings without the
use of a single egg, while up to that
time I'd always used at least the white
of one egg for any kind of frosting.
All the books gave a recipe for molasses cake or gingerbread without
eggs, and one or two included an egg-
less recipe for cookies."

"When it came to breakfast breads
I had quite a hunt, but after a close
examination of every recipe of this
kind in the best books I copied half
a dozen into my notebook. Most of these I've tried since and they've
proved to be all that was claimed for
them, eggless but nevertheless light
and nice. Some of these were so simple as to seem really ridiculous until
I tried them. Waffles without eggs
were unknown except in one book, and
but one recipe could I find for an egg-
less griddlecake!"

"Desserts without eggs seemed to
offer the most promising field for my
research, and I found I could not only
treat my family to eggless pumpkin
and lemon pies (which was a surprise to me), but I could give them a surprise of puddings of the kind that usually called for two or three eggs at the very least."

Punch.

A novelty for whist or social parties where a beverage is served.
Strip, wash and bruise with potato
masher enough mint to lightly fill a quart bowl. Cover with boiling water and steep, like any tea for 10 minutes. Strain well and chill on ice.
When cold add a cup of grape juice
and one of raspberry or strawberry.
Canned fruit may be used. Barberry juice is good, but not so easily obtained. Make a syrup of white sugar
and water boiled for 10 minutes, and
sweeten with this to suit taste. Do not use raw sugar. If no fruit can be obtained or for any reason is not preferred use lemon or orange or pine apple juice. Any way the punch
looks nicer if a few slices of lemon
float around in it. Add also a few sprigs of mint. The flavor is not pre-nounced and is agreeable.

Frosting the Cake.

For a delicious white frosting for a
cake take one cup of granulated sugar,
four tablespoons of cold water, and
one tablespoon of vinegar. Boil for
about five minutes, or until it forms a thread when dropped from a spoon.
Have ready the whites of two or three
eggs whipped to a stiff froth. Add the sugar syrup to the whites of eggs and beat vigorously until it is light and creamy.

Spread thickly on the cake and set aside to harden. It is not necessary
to put in the oven to harden.

A Jelly for Invalids.

Has it ever occurred to you to jelly
fruits in the smallest possible glassess for the invalid friend? Glassess
may be had which will hold but a quarter of the jelly usually put into
the ordinary tumbler size.
While you may not want to carry to
your friend just one of these tiny play-
things, the variety that you could take
in four of the little glassess would
be novel and so much more acceptable to the delicate appetite than a quantity of one kind.

Cranberry Sherbet.

Instead of cranberry sauce or jelly
try a cranberry sherbet with the roast.
A pint of water and a pound of sugar
to each pint of juice should be frozen
in the usual manner; when partly
done stir in the whipped white of one
egg for each pint of juice, finish freezing then add a cup of chopped crys-
tallized fruit softened by previous
soaking repack the freezer and let
stand for an hour to ripen.

Honeycomb Pudding.

Beat two eggs, add one half cup
sugar, one half cup molasses, one half
cup milk in which dissolve one-half
teaspoon soda, one-half cup flour.
Pour into pudding dish and bake in
moderate oven 45 minutes.
Sauce: One cup sugar, one cup boil-
ing water, butter size small egg salt,
one tablespoon flour dissolved in three
tablespoons cold water, one half teaspoon lemon extract.

Soft Chocolate Frosting

One-half cup sugar, two-thirds cup of water, two squares chocolate graded, place of butter size of walnut. Boil
all together, add one tablespoon of cornstarch dissolved in water. Cook
till it thickens. Stir in the beaten
white of an egg and beat for two minutes. Add one teaspoon vanilla.

Queer Behavior by "The Captain"

"So you come after all," observed
Tabitha in a tone of reproach.

"I come right away, soon's I got
your message," returned Lavinia.
The visiting spinster laid aside her
shawl and straightened her bonnet.
She was the dried apricot kind, and
spoke with a lip. It was a wonder
that her quick, nervous movements
never made her bones rattle.

Miss Tabitha was just the other way, like a pin cushion. There was a double chin under her face and a rat-
over it, and the latter was the more apparent because it was reddish in
color, whereas the three wisps of hair
that held it on were brown.

"Certainly I come right away," La-
vinia reaffirmed, "and I'd just like to know why you're sending for me at
this hour of the morning. I've hardly
ate breakfast. What's happened?"

"Wait till you hear."

"The captain ain't had a spell has
he?"

"Somethin' pretty like it. I should say, and if he hasn't, why then, I have."

"Do tell."

"Yes, it's just as I say. I'm that nervous I can't make a cup of tea, and
the captain's in disgrace."

The visiting spinster went off in a titter.

"Lavinia Merkle. Well, no. But he would if he could, right enough. He's the worst parrot in Greenwich village."

"That why you've got the cage covered?"

"That's it. Didn't you hear nothin'
in the night?"

"How would I, across the street?"

"Well, it's a mercy you didn't. I thought all the neighbors would
hear."

"What's he done?"

"Just listen to this. Come nine o'clock last night when I was thinkin'
of bed, I noticed the captain was eyin'
me pretty sharp."

"O ho, Mr. Captain, I won't stand
for none of your nonsense," I says. "If you're up to mischief, you can take
the mornin' for it!" And he cocked his
head on one side and kept his eye on
me. I said "Good night," but he never
light and got into bed."

"That all?"

"I should say not! I lay there and I lay there, wonderin' what he was goin' to do. At last, after midnight,
I hadn't no more than got to sleep when I was waked up by a terrible screech."

"Tabitha Mowscrisps!"

"Yes I was 'Mr. Captain,' I says,
'you'll get yours, some mornin', I says
and with that he let out a screech
worse than other. That time I just passed it over so he'd think I wasn't payin' any attention to him. It worked good, too. There wasn't a sound out of him for a long time, but
just as I was dozin' off again he let
out another yell that made me sit
right up in bed. And what do you suppose he said?"

"Whisky?"

"Tabitha Mowscrisps!"

"Fetch the whisky," he bellers.
Wasn't it scandalous? Fetch the
whisky—whisky, whisky, whisky!"

"You wicked old bird!" I says, "you shut your trap. The neighbors'll hear you." Then he changes his tune and
calls for the peppermint."

"Peppermint?"

"Yes and hot water and smellin'
salts and anisette and Jamaica ginger,
and everything you could think of."

"Cussedness. That's all. He remembered the spell I had last Thanksgiving and he was just mocking me."

"Ain't he full of the mischief?"

"Is he?" Then he started in again,
"Fetch the whisky—peppermint, hot
water, smelling salts, Jamaica ginger, anisette— When he'd kept it up
half an hour I got up and threw a skirt over the cage. That shut him
up and I finally got a little sleep."

"Going to keep him covered over all
day?"

"It would serve him good and right."

"Might be somethin' the matter with
him."

down and peeped under the skirt.

"My land!" gasped Miss Tabitha, straightening up suddenly with staring eyes.

Miss Lavinia shot one glance at her
friend, and with a frenzied clutch
whisked the skirt of the cage. At the bottom of the cage lay a pale green
egg.

The captain cocked his head on one side and leered ironically at the two
old maids.

"Well, I don't wonder he was
s'prised," remarked Lavinia.

"S'prised?"

Itch Relieved at Once

That terrible itch disappears with
the FIRST DROPS of a simple com-

germ instantly.

Heretofore he D D D remedy
has been sold only in $1.00 bottles

D D can now try this remedy in
a special bottle at 25c. It cures the itch instantly. We KNOW this Rem-

THE CAUSE OF COLDS

If people would only fortify and
strengthen the system, the majority of
cases of coughs, colds and pneumonia
might be avoided. These troubles are frequently due to weakness, which produces a catarrhal condition of the mucous membrane, which is an internal
skin of the body. When this skin is
weakened, it becomes easily infected
with germs which cause many of the
diseases to which the flesh is heir.
Healthy mucous membranes are essential safeguards of the body's general
health.

An excellent aid in the prevention of
cough, colds, pneumonia, and such like
infectious diseases, is a remedy that
will prevent or cure catarrh.

We have a remedy which we honestly believe to be unsurpassed in excellence for the prevention of coughs,
colds and all catarrhal conditions. It
is the prescription of a famous physician, who has an enviable reputation
of thirty years of cures gained through
the use of this formula. We promise
to make no charge for the medicine
should it fail to do as we claim. We urge everybody who has need of such a medicine to try Rexall Muc-Tone.
It stands to reason that we could not afford to make such statements and
give our own personal guarantee to this remedy if we were not prepared to
probe the reasonableness of our claim
in every particular, and we see no reason why any one should hesitate to accept our offer and try it. We have two sizes of Rexall Muc-Tone, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Sometimes a 50
cent bottle is sufficient to give marked
relief. As a general thing, the most
chronic case is relieved with an average
of three large bottles. You can obtain

The Stricken Rose From Grief.
What a fortunate provision of nature
it is that deprives the rose of mental
suffering, for how poignant would be its
grief to discover in the height of its
blooming glory that a canker fed at its
heart, and that its beauty and fragrance
were doomed forever. Nature always
spares the suffering; she is a veritable
store-house of pleasing rewards for those who seek her aid. In the years gone by falling hair and grayness have cast a gloom over the lives of thousands
of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause
of hair destruction is now known to be
a germ or parasite that burrows into
the hair follicles. Newbro's Herpicide
absolutely destroys this germ thus
permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample

REAL TALKING PICTURES AT LAST

Manager Harrigan pursuing his policy of giving Ada the best in the amusement line, presented A. R. Ableman's Talking Picture Co., last night and his patrons responded by crowding the DeSota at each show. They were well rewarded as the entertainment was first class in every particular. The pictures were new and pleasing, the talking perfect and the properties and effects used realistic and startling. "The Wages of Sin" suggested by Marie Corelli's "The Vendetta" will be rendered to night in conjunction with a new program of elegant pictures and illustrated song and the house should be crowded. It is just a like a regular play to see and hear these talking pictures as real actors render them, and not a horn. Everyone last night declared them to be true to life. They are only here to night and tomorrow night.

STRAY SHOT HITS WOMAN

Officer Kills Mad Dog but one Shot Goes wild and Hits Lady's Hand

Yesterday somebody from old town phoned the sheriff's office that a mad dog was on a rampage in that section of the city and at every jump was threatening to kill or cripple some one. Officer Perrin with a shot gun was sent to kill the dog. The animal was killed but one of the shots strayed from the others and went through a window of a house on 7th street. A young lady, a daughter of Chas. Edson was sitting at the window and a piece of the flying glass hit her hand.

COUNCIL CALLS MEETING TONIGHT

MASS MEETING CALLED FOR THIS EVENING TO SETTLE WATER PROBLEM

MAY GET BYRD'S MILL WATER

Plan on Foot to Secure Much Needed Water at Place—Lively Discussion of Ditcher's Actions

At the council meeting last night the water question, which has become a serious one in Ada on account of the scarcity of water, was thoroughly discussed and a mass meeting called for tonight to determine whether the city shall get water at Bird's Mill. This proposition was suggested last night and the meeting tonight is to be called for the purpose of seeing if the people will stand behind the city.

The Ditcher Again.

A lively tilt was engaged in by the fathers when the engineer's report, including $82.07 for time lost by the steam ditcher on account of being held up by G. P. Carney, was read. Chapman, Grigsby and Sims thought the council ought to reconsider the passage of the assessing ordinance which included the ditcher's loss of time, $82.07. The other councilmen, except West, who was absent, thought that since the ordinance had run a week at considerable expense it would be better to apportion the $82.07 to the property owners in the district and credit their first payment with it. In either event the property owners will get the benefit of water.

JUSTICE D. J. BREWER DEAD

Washington, March 29.—David Josiah Brewer, associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, died Monday night at 10.30 o'clock, as the result of a stroke of apoplexy. His death followed within a minute or two, before he could be carried to his bed. Mrs. Brewer was with him when the end came. Justice Brewer was 73 years of age.

The end came altogether unexpectedly. Although he had not been feeling well for the past few days, the aged jurist was up and out that day and apparently in the best of health and spirits. He was in equally good spirits at dinner, and spent the evening in reading.

PIN BLAME ON CANINE

Washington, March 29.—On a big, black dog may depend the decision as to whether or not any of the negro soldiers, discharged as a result of the shooting up of Brownsville, Texas, are to be allowed to enlist in the army of the United States. Such a dog is said to have bounded along ahead of the raiders who went on their death-dealing mission on August 13, 1906.

This obscure bit of testimony was brought to the fore today at the sittings of the military court of inquiry. The tale of the dog was told in court by Captain Charles R. Howland, recorder of the court, in his closing address. He recalled how, as the raider went through Cowan alley on the fatal night, Mr. and Mrs. Odin heard the noise, and looking out saw a dog leaping along ahead of the men and thought the men were shooting at this supposed mad dog. He said Mr. Odin described it as a "large, black dog."

THREE KANSANS FOULY MURDERED.

Concordia, Kan., March 29.—Chas Nordmark, a hermit, was arrested this afternoon and is being held pending a thorough investigation of the murder of Alex Lindahl and his two children, whose bodies were found on the banks of the Republican river near Scandia, Kans., Sunday. Suspicion is attached to Nordmark because of the ill feeling known to have existed between him and Lindahl.

Nordmark lived alone in a little hut near Scandia, and when this hut was searched, following his arrest, the officers found three shot guns, a half filled keg of dynamite and five hundred loaded shot gun shells.

The Lindahls were first shot with a shotgun and then clubbed in a fearful manner. Nordmark took his arrest coolly. He would not make any statement. He was lodged in the county jail at Belleville tonight.

VEGETABLES NOW IN SEASON

New and Old Ways of Preparing the Ordinary Accompaniments of the Staple Meats.

Creamed Cabbage.—One small head cabbage chopped coarsely and boiled 10 minutes in boiling salted water without covering; drain. Mix two level tablespoonsful of flour with the same amount of butter and add to one-half pint of the liquid from cabbage; one cupful scalded milk, one-half teaspoonful salt; stir over flame until rather thick. Place layer of cabbage, one of sauce, until bake dish is full, then place in oven until nicely browned. May be prepared the day before wanted. Only takes a longer time to brown in the oven when ready.

Sweet Potatoes.—Peel, boil in enough water to cover. When nearly done pour off all but a cupful of the water and add one good cup of sugar. Cook about 10 or 15 minutes longer. Then take out potatoes, put in a pan with a tablespoonful of butter, add just a little vanilla to the sirup and pour over the potatoes. Put in oven and brown. Serve hot.

Potatoes au Gratin.—Boil as many potatoes as needed in the jackets. Peel and cut in small cubes. Put a layer of potatoes in a baking dish and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Now grate Swiss cheese plentifully over them and dot with butter. Put more potatoes and more cheese until pan is full. Cover top with cracker crumbs and pour a cupful of rich milk over and bake about 30 minutes. Serve from pan you baked them in. This is a fine dish, but use no other than Swiss cheese.

Potatoes.—Pare, wash and bake all same size potatoes. After done, cut in halves, scrape out the inside of potato, add butter, pepper, salt and milk, then mash and beat until very light; then put back into the half shell, rounding top nice and smooth. Put under broiler flame to brown quickly, serve on platter, garnish with parsley; put a small piece of butter on each half potato just before serving.

Green Tomato Mince.—To one-half peck of green tomatoes add two pounds of sugar, one pound of raisins, one pound of cranberries, one-third pound ground cinnamon, three-fourths tablespoonful of cloves, one-half cupful of vinegar, pinch salt, five sour apples, one-half cupful of beef suet; put whole mass through meat chopper and boil about two hours. The suet can be omitted, but it won't be quite so rich without. This keeps all winter in stone crock or glass jars.

A cloth moistened with alcohol will clean piano keys.

Clean linoleum with warm water and polish with milk.

Ammonia used unsparingly cleanses and purifies kitchen utensils.

Clean soiled wallpaper with plaster of paris tied up in a muslin bag.

No soap on window panes! Rub them with either alcohol or ammonia to make them shine.

Decorated china plates should be put away with round pieces of cotton flannel between them.

Apply the white of an egg with a camel's hair brush to fly specks on gilt frames and they will disappear.

Soft soap made from half a pound of shaved down hard soap and two quarts of water will save the soap bill at cleaning time.

All the cooking utensils should be washed with soda immediately after they have been used, which will remove every trace of grease.

Grated raw potato makes a splendid cleanser for carpets. Rub it over the surface and finish off with a clean cloth wrung out of warm water.

Cover plaster of paris figures with a thick coating of starch and water, let it dry on the surface and the dirt will brush off with the dry powder.

Breaded Lamb Chops, Stuffed Tomatoes.

Select tender chops, about one inch thick, remove all extra fat, season with salt and pepper, cover with fine sifted bread crumbs, lay on a rack in the baking pan. For each chop take one ripe but firm tomato, cut a small circle out of the top, scoop out a little of the inside and fill the cavity with fine bread crumbs seasoned with salt and pepper, a little melted butter, a few drops of lemon juice and a little minced parsley. Cover with the circle cut off, place a tomato on each chop and bake in a hot oven from 20 to 30 minutes.

Ironing Board.

The ordinary board may be made much handier for ironing garments of all descriptions, but especially skirts and blouses, by the use of the saw, plane and square. Notches are made near the ends to allow the tops of the chairs to pass through, while a clothes basket or some heavy object placed on one of the chairs will steady it.

Sauce Maitre d'Hotel.

Thoroughly blend a piece of butter the size of an egg with chopped parsley, black pepper and a little fine table salt. Then put this in a bowl to melt slowly, and when liquid serve it smoking hot with boiled or broiled fish, broiled meat or simply boiled potatoes. Squeeze half a lemon into the sauce before sending it to the table.

Sponge Candy.

One cup of table syrup, one cup of granulated sugar; let boil until it cracks when dropped in cold water. Take two teaspoons of baking soda rubbed smooth; stir soda quickly into candy. After removing candy from fire, when thick turn out on buttered platter and let cool.

The Engaged Girl's Worries

"Haven't you noticed how thin I've grown?" asked the engaged girl of her chum, who had just returned from a trip.

"You aren't quite up to the usual mark, now that you call my attention to it, dear," murmured the chum.

"Let me see," said the engaged girl. "It was six weeks ago, wasn't it, that I wrote you Tom had proposed? He passed one delicious week with me, then, three days after he arrived home, my ring came. Yes, I know you've been dying to ask me about it, and that's what I'm coming to."

"Well, when I opened the box and saw that lovely solitaire it seemed as though Tom was near me somehow. Of course, any engaged girl can understand when I say that it compensated in a measure for his absence. The family were exclaiming over the ring when I took it from the box and started to slip it on my finger.

"For goodness' sake, child," gasped Aunt Mary, "don't you know that it's bad luck for anyone but Tom to put that ring on your finger the first time?"

"Of course everybody laughed, as we always do whenever Aunt Mary parades her superstitions. Then, just to show her that I didn't give a particle of weight to such foolishness, I slipped the ring on and waved my finger under Aunt Mary's nose. She looked deeply injured, as usual, and walked out of the room. In my thoughtless way I went on admiring the diamond and thinking what a dear Tom is.

"That afternoon as I was dressing to go to the embroidery circle meeting and anticipating the sensation my ring would create I suddenly remembered that I had left it on the washstand in the bathroom. Of course I ran to get it, and just as I reached forward to pick it up, in some unexplainable manner it slipped forward on the marble and down it went into the pipe!

"I was simply paralyzed for a moment when I flew downstairs and phoned for a plumber to come post-haste, meanwhile wringing my hands and not daring to try to recover the ring myself for fear I might not get it at all. Mother and Aunt Mary were in the library and had heard me when I phoned. Mother was a perfect dear and never reproached me for my carelessness, but if ever a mortal looked triumphant Aunt Mary did.

"It seemed ages before the plumber arrived, and when he finally did come of course he had to go back to the shop for some tool or other. Well, when he got started he worked and worked, and after an agonizing time he actually fished up my ring! Relieved! I could have kissed him, grimy as he was! But I was so worn out from the nervous strain that I wasn't fit to go to the meeting. It was too late, anyhow.

"The next day I took my ring down to the jeweler's to have him clean it, because some particles of dirt had got under the setting and I wouldn't attempt to clean it myself. I took it off and laid it on the counter while he wrote my name on a little slip. When he reached for the ring it wasn't there!

"At first I thought it was a joke he had played on me, for I've been going to him for years. So I laughed and told him not to frighten me. But soon I saw by his manner that it wasn't a joke at all. The ring was really gone!

"We turned the thing over, I looked up and down the floor, into crevices and even to the place I could think of. I was now hysterical and I really began to get in spite of his knowing me. I began to suspect me of having stolen it. As I leaned against the show-case and wept I heard something tinkle, and there, hanging to the fuzzy sleeve of my jacket, was my ring!

"I never mentioned a word of the occurrence at home, but, of course, Aunt Mary had to go to that jeweler's the very next day to have a pin clasp repaired, and she heard the whole story. By that time the ring was beginning to get on my nerves to such an extent that I couldn't sleep. I'd wake up in the middle of the night in a cold perspiration, having dreamed that I had lost it. I'd hide it in all sorts of queer places for fear it would be stolen, and then I would nearly go into spasms because I had forgotten where I had put the ring.

"Finally, after I dropped it at the matinee one day and had a terrible time rescuing it from under the feet of a fat man who sat near me, I decided to deposit it with mother's valuables at the bank and there's where it reposes at present. Do you wonder that I look anxious and worn?"

"Well, it's a rather poor story," yawned the chum. "Now, I've got something really interesting to tell you. Do you know—"

"Tom's coming next week," interrupted the engaged girl, blushing prettily. "And I'm going to ask him to exchange the ring for one exactly like it, so he can be the very first one to put it on my finger. And never again will I ridicule Aunt Mary's warnings or call them foolish superstitions."

"If Tom is as clever as he thinks he is," said the chum, "he'll simply pretend to change the ring and then he'll put the same one on your finger and you and your Aunt Mary will not know the difference."

"Tom would never deceive me, never!" declared the engaged girl, indignantly.

"Oh, you dear, witty thing!" said the chum.

By HAROLD CARTER

It was during the second term in the penitentiary that the great plan first came into Jim Byers' head. At first it was only a thought that stole upon him during the night, while he tossed uneasily upon his plain bed; then a desire; suddenly a mighty and overwhelming passion which must be fulfilled.

When he was freed prison societies came to him and offered him help. But he refused and started on his tramp eastward with the little money that he had earned. First he must fulfill his determination.

It was 150 miles up state to the old home where his brother—the rich man—still lived. Walter had stayed at home and prospered, and was always spoken of as a prospective millionaire, while he, the outcast, the prodigal, the jailbird, the broken man, tramped eastward along the railroad line for that first reunion after 15 years of absence and silence.

It was his absolute determination to meet his brother face to face and kill him, kill him as calmly and remorselessly as he himself had once killed cattle in the slaughter yards, because he had prospered while he was starving. What would come afterward he did not think or care.

For five nights and days he tramped along the railroad line, exulting at each remembered landmark for the vengeance which was to come to him. A dusty tramp, disheveled, torn, a few coins dancing in his pockets as he tripped from tie to tie, the knife hidden in his sleeve which was to dissolve his debt of hatred. In this wise he reached the little village.

He stood still, rubbing his eyes in wonder. This his home site? Why, here was a factory town, with smoke belching from the tops of 20 tall chimneys.

Did anybody remember the old Byers homestead?

Yes, the moonkeeper remembered it. But he did not remember Jim in his tramp's clothes, with prison palor upon his face. It had been sold and pulled down these ten years or more. Walter Byers? Why, that was the Byers' home, that red brick building on the hill yonder. He might get a job there possibly. Mr. Byers was always in need of hands in his factory.

Slowly Jim turned his face toward his brother's house and toiled up the hill painfully. No matter, his work would soon be over. But when he reached the gate of the garden he stood still, staring into the face of a little girl who sat there, shading her eyes as she gazed cityward.

"Is Mr. Byers at home?" and he felt the steel beat a tattoo against the bare flesh of his arm.

"Father's not home yet," said the girl. "There's nobody home but me."

"So you're Walter Byers' daughter, are you? Have you any brothers and sisters?"

"No, there's only me. You're not my Uncle Jim, are you?"

She looked into his face frankly and anxiously.

"No, I know you're not. Because you're so poor and Uncle Jim's rich. He's coming home some day to take us by surprise. Only, you see, we're all so anxious for him to come, because father tried so hard for years to find him, and we know he's making his fortune out in the west somewhere and he'll come back again."

He had become a myth, the rich uncle who was to return some day to his devoted family! Jim heard incidents of his boyhood, exploits now greatly magnified, from his little niece's lips. And they were proud of him!

For the first time since he had left the penitentiary he laughed, then stopped and drew his sleeve across his eyes. He turned away.

"Won't you wait for father? He won't be long. Who shall I tell him called to see him?"

Jim straightened himself. "Tell him a broken man who's gone out to fight the world again; to lift up his head and look it in the eye squarely a man who's taken his beating and learned his lesson."

He turned and plunged down the steep hill westward in the direction of the railroad line.

New York Farms.

A farm in Central New York, bought a few years ago for $15 an acre, produced two years later a crop of peas worth more than $50 an acre. This incident, considered in conjunction with the fact that many farms can be bought for even less than the value of the buildings standing on the land, is used in a bulletin by Commissioner Pearson of the state agricultural department to indicate the possibilities of agriculture in New York.

This publication also gives the value of crops in this state for a period of 40 years, showing that New York is the fourth state in agricultural importance. A significant feature of the statistics is that while in 1876 New York raised 35,000,000 bushels of potatoes, valued at $10,985,173, last year it produced 34,850,000 bushels, valued at $26,138,000. Similarly increased value is shown in other crops, while the volume is about the same.

Tishomingo, Okla., March 29.—In a fire here last night, the most disastrous in the history of the city, three two-story buildings and contents were burned, entailing a loss conservatively estimated at $75,000 to $100,000.

The buildings were brick and the Capital Drug Store was on the corner of Main and Kemp streets. The other burned buildings were on Main street.

The Postoffice was in the rear of the opera house. The opera house was over the Capital drug store.

KILLINGS

Lima, Ohio, March 29.—Two men were instantly killed, one fatally injured, and a house burned to the ground as the result of a collision between two interurban electric trains near here today. Both trains were destroyed.

The dead are:
Pearl H. McPherson, motorist, Lima.

Earle Rothrock, expressman, Lockington.

James Risk, baggageman, of Lima, was fatally injured and several of the passengers on both cars were seriously hurt.

The collision occurred at a place where the tracks curve around an untenanted house. Both cars were going at full speed. An exploding fuse sent

the wreckage into a blaze, which communicated with the house.

Laurens, S. C., March 29.—Officers tonight are are scouting this county in search of Claude Ferguson and Jim Davis, negroes, charged with killing three negroes near Parks Station, this county, last night.

It is said that the fugitives, after killing a man and woman, went to the home of Alexander Ray, another negro, called him to his door and shot and killed him. None of the circumstances that led to the shooting is known.

SEVERAL HUNDRED DIE IN BIG FIRE

By Associated Press

Mateszalky, Hungary, March 28.—Between 300 and 400 persons lost their lives in a fire in the village of Oekoerito, near here. An entertainment was in progress in a hotel at the time and the victims were attending it. The people were dancing when a pine branch used to decorate the ball floor, fell blazing, and in a minute the dresses of several women were afire and the blaze spread at an astonishing rate. The hall was crowded and the doors had been barred to prevent more coming in.

A dreadful panic ensued, many persons with flames shooting out from their garments rushed toward the barred doors where a surging mass were jammed together. Men and women fell and were trampled upon. Those in front endeavored to open the doors but were hopelessly crushed by the pressure of the crowd behind. Soon the roof crashed in, the blazing wreckage falling on the helpless victims, so that many of those who had hitherto escaped the flames were struck down by the beams or buried under the debris. When the door was finally broken open some few persons escaped. The statement given out tonight states that 290 persons perished, but it is believed that the total death toll will prove much larger than this.

Special to News

Roswell, N. M., March 29.—The big alfalfa meal mill of the Roswell Wool and Hide Company was damaged to the extent of $15,000 last night by a fire which started at 10 o'clock around an outside stairway and ran up a telephone pole to a wooden meal elevator which carried meal across an angle of the building. The fire outside of the building was soon extinguished and the department went home. About midnight the whole inside of the building broke into a blaze, although every nook had been searched for sparks. Two hundred tons of hay, ready for grinding, was ruined. The cost of the building and plant was $42,000.

Loss is fully covered by insurance. The fire department was worked until 6 o'clock this morning on the second fire. The city water went out of commission at 4 on account of heavy pressure bursting a main. From that time the fight was carried on with the company's private plant.

Welsh, La. March 27.—Practically the business section of Welsh wiped out by fire early today. Thirty buildings were destroyed entailing a loss of $200,000, with little insurance.

The fire originated through some unknown cause in the Signal Hotel and quickly spread to other adjacent frame buildings. The town is without waterworks and the efforts of citizens to check the flames proved futile.

Among the buildings destroyed were the Signal Hotel, Enreka Hotel and postoffice.

DID HE SLAY?

Pawhuska, Okla., March 28.—(Special) Martin Sanders, a cowboy who is charged with killing his associate, Jim Hiatt, on a cattle ranch in the mountain part of the county, was arrested today as he was trying to make his escape in the Caney river section. He waived examination and was committed without bail.

NEW YORK HOUSEWIFE HAS LEARNED SOMETHING.

Pastry and All Sorts of Goodies for
Which Recipes Are to Be Had
—Means Distinct Saving
in Kitchen.

"With eggs at 50 cents a dozen and
my family of four clamoring for cakes,
cookies, desserts and breakfast breads,
egg economy was simply forced upon me," said a thrifty New York housekeeper. "I'd always heard of eggless
recipes and laughed at them, but with
ruin staring me in the face I decided
to make a thorough search through
reliable cookbooks and domestic magazines until I'd collected a good assortment of these eggless recipes."

days to looking through the cook
books at one of the large public libraries and I was simply amazed at the results of my search. While some of the best authorities had not a single recipe for cake made with less than
three eggs, others of equally high
standing usually gave a one egg cake
and occasionally an eggless cake."

"All authorities gave directions for making things and fillings without the use of a single egg, while up to that
time I'd always used at least the white
of one egg for any kind of frosting.
All the books gave a recipe for mol-
asses cake or gingerbread without
eggs, and one or two included an egg-
less recipe for cookies."

"When it came to breakfast breads
I had quite a hunt, but after a close
examination of every recipe of this
kind in the best books I copied half
a dozen into my notebook. Most of these I've tried since and they've
proved to be all that was claimed for
them, eggless but nevertheless light
and nice. Some of these were so simple as to seem really ridiculous until
I tried them. Waffles without eggs
were unknown except in one book, and
but one recipe could I find for an egg-
less griddlecake!"

"Desserts without eggs seemed to offer the most promising field for my
research, and I found I could not only
treat my family to eggless pumpkin
and lemon pies (which was a surprise to me), but I could get the best variety
of puddings of the kind that usually
called for two or three eggs at the
very least."

Punch.
A novelty for whist or social parties where a beverage is served.
Strip, wash and bruise with potato
masher enough mint to lightly fill a quart bowl. Cover with boiling water and steep, like any tea for 10 minutes. Strain well and chill on ice.
When cold add a cup of grape juice
and one of raspberry or strawberry.
Canned fruit may be used. Barbary juice is good, but not so easily obtained. Make a syrup of white sugar
and water, boiled for 10 minutes, and sweeten with this to suit taste. Do not use raw sugar. If no fruit can be obtained or for any reason is not preferred, use lemon or orange or pineapple juice. Any way the punch
looks nicer if a few slices of lemon
float around in it. Add also a few
sprigs of mint. The flavor is not pronounced and is agreeable.

Frosting the Cake.
For a delicious white frosting for a
cake take one cup of granulated sugar,
four tablespoons of cold water, and
one tablespoon of vinegar. Boil for
about five minutes, or until it forms a thread when dropped from a spoon.
Have ready the whites of two or three
eggs whipped to a stiff froth. Add the
sugar syrup to the whites of eggs and beat vigorously until it is light and creamy.

Spread thickly on the cake and set aside to harden. It is not necessary
to put in the oven to harden.

A Jelly for Invalids.
Has it ever occurred to you to jelly
fruits in the smallest possible glassess for the invalid friend? Glasses
may be had which will hold but a quarter of the jelly usually put into
the ordinary tumbler size.

While you may not want to carry to
your friend just one of these tiny play-
things, the variety that you could take
in four of the little glasses would
be novel and so much more accept-
able to the delicate appetite than a quantity of one kind.

Cranberry Sherbet.
Instead of cranberry sauce or jelly
try a cranberry sherbet with the roast.
A pint of water and a pound of sugar
to each pint of juice should be frozen
in the usual manner; when partly
done stir in the whipped white of one
egg for each pint of juice, finish freezing, then add a cup of chopped crys-
tallized fruit softened by previous
soaking repack the freezer and let
stand for an hour to ripen.

Honeycomb Pudding.
Beat two eggs, add one-half cup
sugar, one-half cup molasses, one-half
cup milk in which dissolve one-half
teaspoon soda, one-half cup flour.
Four into pudding dish and bake in moderate oven 45 minutes.

Sauce One cup sugar, one cup boil-
ing water, butter size small egg, salt,
one tablespoon flour dissolved in three
tablespoons cold water, one-half teaspoon lemon extract.

Soft Chocolate Frosting.
One-half cup sugar, two thirds cup
of water, two squares chocolate grat-
ed, piece of butter size of walnut. Boil
all together, add one tablespoon of cornstarch dissolved in water. Cook
till it thickens. Stir in the beaten
white of an egg and beat for two minutes. Add one teaspoon vanilla.

Queer Behavior by "The Captain"

"So you come after all," observed
Tabitha in a tone of reproach.

"I come right away, soon's I got
your message," returned Lavinia.

The visiting spinster laid aside her
shawl and straightened her bonnet.
She was the dried apricot kind, and
sucked in her lips so hard that she spoke with a lip. It was a wonder
that her quick, nervous movements
never made her bones rattle.

Miss Tabitha was just the other way, like a pin cushion. There was a double chin under her face and a rat-
over it, and the latter was the more apparent because it was reddish in
color, whereas the three wisps of hair
that held it on were brown.

"Certainly I come right away," La-
vinia reaffirmed, "and I'd just like to know why you're sending for me at
this hour of the morning. I've hardly
ate breakfast. What's happened?"

"Wait till you hear."

"The captain ain't had a spell has
he?"

"Somethin' pretty like it. I should say, and if he hasn't, why then, I have."

"Do tell."

"Yes, it's just as I say. I'm that nervous I can't make a cup of tea, and
the captain's in disgrace."

The visiting spinster went off in a titter.

"Lavinia Merkle! Well, no. But he would if he could, right enough. He's the worst parrot in Greenwich village."

"That why you've got the cage covered?"

"That's it. Didn't you hear nothin'
in the night?"

"How would I, across the street?"

"Well, it's a mercy you didn't. I thought all the neighbors would
hear."

"What's he done?"

"Just listen to this. Come nine o'clock last night when I was thinkin'
of bed, I noticed the captain was eyin'
me pretty sharp."

"O ho, Mr. captain, I won't stand
for none of your nonsense," I says. "If you're up to mischief, you can take
the mornin' for it. And he cocked his head on one side and kept his eye on
me. I said 'Good night,' but he never answered a word, so I turned out the
light and got into bed."

"That all?"

"I should say not! I lay there and I lay there, wonderin' what he was
goin' to do. At last, after midnight, I hadn't no more than got to sleep when I was waked up by a terrible screech."

"Tabitha Mowscripts!"

"Yes I was 'Mr. Captain,' I says,
'you'll get yours, some mornin'.' I says
And with that he let out a screech worse than other. That time I wasn't pawin' any attention to him. It worked good, too. There wasn't a sound out of him for a long time, but
just as I was dozin' off again he let
out another yell that made me sit
right up in bed. And what do you s'pose he said?"

"What?"

"Whisky!"

"Tabitha Mowscripts!"

"Fetch the whisky," he hollers.

Wasn't it scandalous? Fetch the
whisky—whisky, whisky, whisky!"

"You wicked old bird!" I says, "you shut your trap. The neighbors'll hear
you. Then he changes his tune and
calls for the peppermint."

"Peppermint?"

"Yes and hot water and smellin'
salts and aniseete and Jamaica ginger,
and everythin' you could think of."

"My goodness! What ailed him?"

"Cussedness. That's all. He remembered the spell I had last Thanksgiving and he was just mocking me."

"Ain't he full of the mischief?"

"Is he? Then he started in again,
'Fetch the whisky—peppermint, hot water, smellin' salts, Jamaica ginger, aniseete—' When he'd kept it up half an hour I got up and threw a skirt over the cage. That shut him
up and I finally got a little sleep."

"Going to keep him cooped over all day?"

"It would serve him good and right."

"Might be sometin' the matter with
him."

"Course there isn't."

Nevertheless Miss Tabitha stooped
down and peeped under the skirt.

"My land!" gasped Miss Tabitha,
straightening up suddenly with staring eyes.

Miss Lavinia shot one glance at her
friend, and with a frenzied clutch
whisked the skirt of the cage. At the bottom of the cage lay a pale green
egg.

The captain cocked his head on one side and leered ironically at the two
old maids.

"Well, I don't wonder he was
s'prised," remarked Lavinia.

"S'prised?"

Heretofore the D D D remedy

D D can now try this remedy in a special bottle at 25c. It cures the itch instantly. We KNOW this Ramsey Drug Co., West Main St.

THE CAUSE OF COLDS

If people would only fortify and
strengthen the system, the majority of
cases of coughs, colds and pneumonia
might be avoided. These troubles are frequently due to weakness, which produces a catarrhal condition of the mucous membrane, which is an internal
skin of the body. When this skin is weakened, it becomes easily infected
with germs which cause many of the
diseases to which the flesh is heir.
Healthy mucous membranes are essential safeguards of the body's general
health.

An excellent aid in the prevention of
cough, colds, pneumonia, and such like
infectious diseases, is a remedy that
will prevent or cure catarrh.

We have a remedy which we honestly believe to be unsurpassed in excellence for the prevention of coughs,
colds and all catarrhal conditions. It is the prescription of a famous physician, who has an enviable reputation
of thirty years of cures gained through
the use of this formula. We promise
to make no charge for the medicine
should it fail to do as we claim. We urge everybody who has need of such a medicine to try Rexall Mucu-Tone.

It stands to reason that we could not afford to make such statements and
give our own personal guarantee to this remedy if we were not prepared to
probe the reasonableness of our claim
in every particular, and we see no reason why any one should hesitate to

The Stricken Rose From Grief.

What a fortunate provision of nature
it is that deprives the roe of mental suffering, for how poignant would be its
grief to discover in the height of its
blooming glory that a canker fed at its
heart, and that its beauty and fragrance
were doomed forever. Nature always spares the suffering; she is a veritable
store-house of pleasing rewards. For those who seek her aid in the years
gone by failing hair and grayness have
cast a gloom over the lives of thousands
of young women, but thanks to the investigations of scientists the true cause
of hair destruction is now known to be
a germ or parasite that burrows into
the hair follicles. Newbro's Herpicide
absolutely destroys this germ, thus permitting the hair to grow as nature intended. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample

REAL TALKING PICTURES AT LAST

Manager Harrigan pursuing his policy of giving Ada the best in the amusement line, presented A. R. Ableman's Talking Picture Co., last night and his patrons responded by crowding the DeSota at each show. They were well rewarded as the entertainment was first class in every particular. The pictures were new and pleasing, the talking perfect and the properties and effects used realistic and startling. "The Wages of Sin" suggested by Marie Corelli's "The Vendetta" will be rendered to night in conjunction with a new program of elegant pictures and illustrated song and the house should be crowded. It is just a like a regular play to see and hear these talking pictures as real actors render them, and not a horn. Everyone last night declared them to be true to life. They are only here to night and tomorrow night.

STRAY SHOT HITS WOMAN

Officer Kills Mad Dog but one Shot Goes wild and Hits Lady's Hand

Yesterday somebody from old town phoned the sheriff's office that a mad dog was on a rampage in that section of the city and at every jump was threatening to kill or cripple some one. Officer Perrin with a shot gun was sent to kill the dog. The animal was killed but one of the shots strayed from the others and went through a window of a house on 7th street. A young lady, a daughter of Chas. Edson was sitting at the window and a piece of the flying glass hit her hand.

COUNCIL CALLS MEETING TONIGHT

MASS MEETING CALLED FOR THIS EVENING TO SETTLE WATER PROBLEM

MAY GET BYRD'S MILL WATER

Plan on Foot to Secure Much Needed Water at Place—Lively Discussion of Ditcher's Actions

At the council meeting last night the water question, which has become a serious one in Ada on account of the scarcity of water, was thoroughly discussed and a mass meeting called for tonight to determine whether the city shall get water at Bird's Mill. This proposition was suggested last night and the meeting tonight is to be called for the purpose of seeing if the people will stand behind the city.

The Ditcher Again.

A lively tilt was engaged in by the fathers when the engineer's report, including $82.07 for time lost by the steam ditcher on account of being held up by G. P. Carney, was read. Chapman, Grigsby and Sims thought the council ought to reconsider the passage of the assessing ordinance which included the ditcher's loss of time, $82.07. The other councilmen, except West, who was absent, thought that since the ordinance had run a week at considerable expense it would be better to apportion the $82.07 to the property owners in the district and credit their first payment with it.

In either event the property owners will get the benefit of water.

JUSTICE D. J. BREWER DEAD

Washington, March 29.—David Josiah Brewer, associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, died Monday night at 10.30 o'clock, as the result of a stroke of apoplexy. His death followed within a minute or two, before he could be carried to his bed. Mrs. Brewer was with him when the end came. Justice Brewer was 73 years of age.

The end came altogether unexpectedly. Although he had not been feeling well for the past few days, the aged jurist was up and out that day and apparently in the best of health and spirits. He was in equally good spirits at dinner, and spent the evening in reading.

PIN BLAME ON CANINE

Washington, March 29.—On a big, black dog may depend the decision as to whether or not any of the negro soldiers, discharged as a result of the shooting up of Brownsville, Texas, are to be allowed to enlist in the army of the United States. Such a dog is said to have bounded along ahead of the raiders who went on their death-dealing mission on August 13, 1906.

This obscure bit of testimony was brought to the fore today at the sittings of the military court of inquiry. The tale of the dog was told in court by Captain Charles R. Howland, recorder of the court, in his closing address. He recalled how, as the raider went through Cowan alley on the fatal night, Mr. and Mrs. Odin heard the noise, and looking out saw a dog leaping along ahead of the men and thought the men were shooting at this supposed mad dog. He said Mr. Odin described it as a "large, black dog."

THREE KANSANS FOULY MURDERED.

Concordia, Kan., March 29.—Chas Nordmark, a hermit, was arrested this afternoon and is being held pending a thorough investigation of the murder of Alex Lindahl and his two children, whose bodies were found on the banks of the Republican river near Scandia, Kans., Sunday. Suspicion is attached to Nordmark because of the ill feeling known to have existed between him and Lindahl.

Nordmark lived alone in a little hut near Scandia, and when this hut was searched, following his arrest, the officers found three shot guns, a half filled keg of dynamite and five hundred loaded shot gun shells.

The Lindahls were first shot with a shotgun and then clubbed in a fearful manner. Nordmark took his arrest coolly. He would not make any statement. He was lodged in the county jail at Belleville tonight.

VEGETABLES NOW IN SEASON

New and Old Ways of Preparing the Ordinary Accompaniments of the Staple Meats.

Creamed Cabbage.—One small head cabbage chopped coarsely and boiled 10 minutes in boiling salted water without covering. Drain. Mix two level tablespoonsful of flour with the same amount of butter and add to one-half pint of the liquid from cabbage, one cupful scalded milk, one-half teaspoonful salt; stir over flame until rather thick. Place layer of cabbage, one of sauce, until bake dish is full, then place in oven until nicely browned. May be prepared the day before wanted. Only takes a longer time to brown in the oven when ready.

Sweet Potatoes.—Peel, boil in enough water to cover. When nearly done pour off all but a cupful of the water and add one good cup of sugar. Cook about 10 or 15 minutes longer. Then take out potatoes, put in a pan with a tablespoonful of butter, add just a little vanilla to the sirup and pour over the potatoes. Put in oven and brown. Serve hot.

Potatoes au Gratin.—Boil as many potatoes as needed in the jackets. Peel and cut in small cubes. Put a layer of potatoes in a baking dish and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Now grate Swiss cheese plentifully over them and dot with butter. Put more potatoes and more cheese until pan is full. Cover top with cracker crumbs and pour a cupful of rich milk over and bake about 30 minutes. Serve from pan you baked them in. This is a fine dish, but use no other than Swiss cheese.

Potatoes.—Pare, wash and bake all same size potatoes. After done, cut in halves, scrape out the inside of potato, add butter, pepper, salt and milk, then mash and beat until very light; then put back into the half shell, rounding top nice and smooth. Put under broiler flame to brown quickly, serve on platter, garnish with parsley; put a small piece of butter on each half potato just before serving.

Green Tomato Mince.—To one-half peck of green tomatoes add two pounds of sugar, one pound of raisins, one pound of cranberries, one tablespoonful ground cinnamon, three-fourths tablespoonful of cloves, one-half cupful of vinegar, pinch salt, five sour apples, one-half cupful of beef suet; put whole mass through meat chopper and boil about two hours. The suet can be omitted, but it won't be quite so rich without. This keeps all winter in stone crock or glass jars.

A cloth moistened with alcohol will clean piano keys.

Clean linoleum with warm water and polish with milk.

Ammonia used unsparingly cleanses and purifies kitchen utensils.

Clean soiled wallpaper with plaster of paris tied up in a muslin bag.

No soap on window panes! Rub them with either alcohol or ammonia to make them shine.

Decorated china plates should be put away with round pieces of cotton flannel between them.

Apply the white of an egg with a camel's hair brush to fly specks on gilt frames and they will disappear.

Soft soap made from half a pound of shaved down hard soap and two quarts of water will save the soap bill at cleaning time.

All the cooking utensils should be washed with soda immediately after they have been used, which will remove every trace of grease.

Grated raw potato makes a splendid cleanser for carpets. Rub it over the surface and finish off with a clean cloth wrung out of warm water.

Cover plaster of paris figures with a thick coating of starch and water, let it dry on the surface and the dirt will brush off with the dry powder.

Breaded Lamb Chops, Stuffed Tomatoes.—Select tender chops, about one inch thick, remove all extra fat, season with salt and pepper, cover with fine sifted bread crumbs, lay on a rack in the baking pan. For each chop take one ripe but firm tomato, cut a small circle off the top, scoop out a little of the inside and fill the cavity with fine bread crumbs seasoned with salt and pepper, a little melted butter, a few drops of lemon juice and a little minced parsley. Cover with the circle cut off, place a tomato on each chop and bake in a hot oven from 20 to 30 minutes.

Ironing Board.—The ordinary board may be made much handier for ironing garments of all descriptions, but especially skirts and shirts, by the use of the saw, plane and square. Notches are made near the ends to allow the tops of the chairs to pass through, while a clothes basket or some heavy object placed on one of the chairs will steady it.

Sauce Maitre d'Hotel.—Thoroughly blend a piece of butter the size of an egg with chopped parsley, black pepper and a little fine table salt. Then put this in a bowl to melt slowly, and when liquid serve it smoking hot with boiled or broiled fish, broiled meat or simply boiled potatoes. Squeeze half a lemon into the sauce before sending it to the table.

Sponge Candy.—One cup of table syrup, one cup of granulated sugar; let boil until it cracks when dropped in cold water. Take two teaspoons of baking soda, rubbed smooth; stir soda quickly into candy. After removing candy from fire, when thick turn out on buttered platter and let cool.

The Engaged Girl's Worries

"Haven't you noticed how thin I've grown?" asked the engaged girl of her chum, who had just returned from a trip.

"You aren't quite up to the usual mark, now that you call my attention to it, dear," murmured the chum.

"Let me see," said the engaged girl. "It was six weeks ago, wasn't it, that I wrote you Tom had proposed? He passed one delicious week with me, then, three days after he arrived home, my ring came. Yes, I know you've been dying to ask me about it, and that's what I'm coming to."

"Well, when I opened the box and saw that lovely solitaire it seemed as though Tom was near me somehow. Of course, any engaged girl can understand when I say that it compensated in a measure for his absence. The family were exclaiming over the ring when I took it from the box and started to slip it on my finger."

"For goodness' sake, child," gasped Aunt Mary, "don't you know that it's bad luck for anyone but Tom to put that ring on your finger the first time?"

"Of course everybody laughed, as we always do whenever Aunt Mary parades her superstitions. Then, just to show her that I didn't give a particle of weight to such foolishness, I slipped the ring on and waved my finger under Aunt Mary's nose. She looked deeply injured, as usual, and walked out of the room. In my thoughtless way I went on admiring the diamond and thinking what a dear Tom is."

"That afternoon as I was dressing to go to the embroidery circle meeting and anticipating the sensation my ring would create I suddenly remembered that I had left it on the washstand in the bathroom. Of course I ran to get it, and just as I reached forward to pick it up, in some unexplainable manner it slipped forward on the marble and down it went into the pipe!"

"I was simply paralyzed for a moment when I flew downstairs and phoned for a plumber to come post-haste, meanwhile wringing my hands and not daring to try to recover the ring myself for fear I might not get it at all. Mother and Aunt Mary were in the library and had heard me when I phoned. Mother was a perfect dear and never reproached me for my carelessness, but if ever a mortal looked triumphant Aunt Mary did."

"It seemed ages before the plumber arrived, and when he finally did come of course he had to go back to the shop for some tool or other. Well, when he got started he worked and worked, and after an agonizing time he actually fished up my ring! Rejoiced! I could have kissed him, grimly as he was! But I was so worn out from the nervous strain that I wasn't fit to go to the meeting. It was too late, anyhow."

"The next day I took my ring down to the jeweler's to have him clean it, because some particles of dirt had got under the setting and I wouldn't attempt to clean it myself. I took it off and laid it on the counter while he wrote my name on a little slip. When he reached for the ring it wasn't there!"

"At first I thought it was a joke he had played on me, for I've been going to him for years. So I laughed and told him not to frighten me. But soon I saw by his manner that it wasn't a joke at all. The ring was really gone!"

"We turned the thing over, I looked up and down the floor, into crevices and everywhere. I thought I could think of anything but hysterical and I really began to get in spite of his knowing me. I began to suspect me of some crime. As I leaned against the show-case and wept I heard something tinkle, and there, hanging to the fuzzy sleeve of my jacket, was my ring!"

"I never mentioned a word of the occurrence at home, but, of course, Aunt Mary had to go to that jeweler's the very next day to have a pin clasp repaired, and she heard the whole story. By that time the ring was beginning to get on my nerves to such an extent that I couldn't sleep. I'd wake up in the middle of the night in a cold perspiration, having dreamed that I had lost it. I'd hide it in all sorts of queer places for fear it would be stolen, and then I would nearly go into spasms because I had forgotten where I had put the ring."

"Finally, after I dropped it at the matinee one day and had a terrible time rescuing it from under the feet of a fat man who sat near me, I decided to deposit it with mother's valuables at the bank and there's where it reposes at present. Do you wonder that I look anxious and worn?"

"Well, it's a rather poor story," yawned the chum. "Now, I've got something really interesting to tell you. Do you know—"

"Tom's coming next week," interrupted the engaged girl, blushing prettily, "and I'm going to ask him to exchange the ring for one exactly like it, so he can be the very first one to put it on my finger. And never again will I ridicule Aunt Mary's warnings or call them foolish superstitions."

"If Tom is as clever as he thinks he is," said the chum, "he'll simply pretend to change the ring and then he'll put the same one on your finger and you and your Aunt Mary will not know the difference."

"Tom would never deceive me, never!" declared the engaged girl, indignantly.

"Oh, you dear, witty thing!" said the chum.

The Prodigal Uncle

By HAROLD CARTER

It was during the second term in the penitentiary that the great plan first came into Jim Byers' head. At first it was only a thought that stole upon him during the night, while he tossed uneasily upon his plain bed; then a desire; suddenly a mighty and overwhelming passion which must be fulfilled.

When he was freed prison societies came to him and offered him help. But he refused and started on his tramp eastward with the little money that he had earned. First he must fulfill his determination.

It was 150 miles on state to the old home where his brother—the rich man—still lived. Walter had stayed at home and prospered, and was always spoken of as a prospective millionaire, while he, the outcast, the prodigal, the jailbird, the broken man, tramped eastward along the railroad line for that first reunion after 15 years of absence and silence.

It was his absolute determination to meet his brother face to face and kill him, kill him as calmly and remorselessly as he himself had once killed cattle in the slaughter yards, because he had prospered while he was starving. What would come afterward he did not think or care.

For five nights and days he tramped along the railroad line, exulting at each remembered landmark for the vengeance which was to come to him. A dusty tramp, disheveled, torn, a few coins dancing in his pockets as he tripped from tie to tie, the knife hidden in his sleeve which was to absolve his debt of hatred. In this wise he reached the little village.

He stood still, rubbing his eyes in wonder. This his home site? Why, here was a factory town, with smoke belching from the tops of 20 tall chimneys.

Did anybody remember the old Byers homestead?

Yes, the schoolkeeper remembered it. But he did not remember Jim in his tramp's clothes, with prison pallor upon his face. It had been sold and pulled down these ten years or more. Walter Byers? Why, that was the Byers' home, that red brick building on the hill yonder. He might get a job there possibly. Mr. Byers was always in need of hands in his factory.

Slowly Jim turned his face toward his brother's house and toiled up the hill painfully. No matter, his work would soon be over. But when he reached the gate of the garden he stood still, staring into the face of a little girl who sat there, shading her eyes as she gazed cityward.

"Is Mr. Byers at home?" and he felt the steel beat a tattoo against the bare flesh of his arm.

"Father's not home yet," said the girl. "There's nobody home but me."

"No, there's only me. You're not my Uncle Jim, are you?"

She looked into his face frankly and anxiously.

"No, I know you're not. Because you're so poor and Uncle Jim's rich. He's coming home some day to take us by surprise. Only, you see, we're all so anxious for him to come, because father tried so hard for years to find him, and we know he's making his fortune out in the west somewhere and he'll come back again."

He had become a myth, the rich uncle who was to return some day to his devoted family! Jim heard incidents of his boyhood, exploits now greatly magnified, from his little niece's lips. And they were proud of him!

For the first time since he had left the penitentiary he laughed, then stopped and drew his sleeve across his eyes. He turned away.

Jim straightened himself.

"Tell him a broken man who's gone out to fight the world again; to lift up his head and look it in the eye squarely. A man who's taken his beating and learned his lesson."

He turned and plunged down the steep hill westward in the direction of the railroad line.

New York Farms.

A farm in Central New York, bought a few years ago for $15 an acre, produced two years later a crop of peas worth more than $50 an acre. This incident, considered in conjunction with the fact that many farms can be bought for even less than the value of the buildings standing on the land, is used in a bulletin by Commissioner Pearson of the state agricultural department to indicate the possibilities of agriculture in New York.

This publication also gives the value of crops in this state for a period of 40 years, showing that New York is the fourth state in agricultural importance. A significant feature of the statistics is that while in 1875 New York raised 35,000,000 bushels of potatoes, valued at $10,985,179, last year it produced 34,850,000 bushels, valued at $26,138,000. Similarly increased value is shown in other crops, while the volume is about the same.
